

Upper Perennial Border

Two 15th-century panels in bas-relief of martyrs and saints are embedded in the stone wall. A rare medlar tree, often seen in early monastic gardens, grows nearby.

The 12th-century capital from Cluny, France, serves as a birdbath in the corner.